

PROFILE | Kristen L. Penczek

Senior Managing Director
Audience Engagement

Kristen Penczek joined Maryland Public Television's management team in 2015 and currently serves as senior managing director, Audience Engagement, within the Development Division.

In this role, Ms. Penczek oversees two MPT departments: Special Events & Community Engagement and Member & Viewer Services. She and her teams are responsible for a number of initiatives including developing and overseeing fundraising-related special events; growing relationships with community partners through outreach activities; assisting with creative concept and logistical planning of internal events; and fostering deeper relationships with MPT viewers and members through daily conversations and a variety of community engagement functions and programs.

Ms. Penczek and her team were also responsible for the MPT Salutes Vietnam Veterans initiative's public events during the period of 2015-2016 as well as a variety of internal and public activities and events in celebration of MPT's 50th anniversary in 2019. More recently, she was responsible for station grant oversight as well as management of screenings and other events related to Harriet Tubman: Visions of Freedom and Becoming Frederick Douglass. Her teams play a substantial role in the events and logistical management of many content related projects, such as HBCU Week and Chesapeake Collectibles.

Before joining MPT, Ms. Penczek was interim executive director of the Baltimore-based International Dyslexia Association (IDA), an organization she originally joined in 2008 as director of conferences. Prior to her six years of service at IDA, she worked as graphic designer and events specialist for the American Lung Association of the Atlantic Coast, Inc., based in Hunt Valley, Md. Still earlier she was assistant director of career services at Gardner-Webb University in North Carolina.

An alumna of Salisbury University where she earned a bachelor's degree with a political science major, Ms. Penczek also holds a master's degree in sports science and pedagogy from Gardner-Webb University. She is a Public Media Diversity Fellow as a result of her participation in Furman University's Public Media Diversity Leadership Initiative.

She resides in Hampstead, Md., with her husband and three children.
